

Michael Igo

Interim Chief of Police, City of Dallas

Michael Igo was named Interim Police Chief for the Dallas Police Department in October 2024. Igo has been with the Dallas Police Department for more than three decades. According to the city, he was first promoted to senior corporal in 1997 and went on to become a sergeant, lieutenant, major, deputy chief, and assistant chief before his appointment to executive assistant chief in January 2024.

Igo has a bachelor of science degree in commercial economics from South Dakota University. He completed the inaugural Sergeant Series Leadership School and Lieutenant Series Leadership School from the Caruth Police Institute, as well as the FBI Command College at the University of Texas, the Law Enforcement Management Institute of North Texas at Texas A&M University, and the Senior Management Institute for Police.

"It is an honor to be named as Interim Dallas Police Chief. I want to thank Interim City Manager Kimberly Bizzor Tolbert for this assignment and her confidence in me," said Igo. "For the last three decades, I have remained committed to the safety of this great City and its residents. I look forward to serving in this new capacity and will continue prioritizing crime reduction and recruiting the best and brightest that this country has to offer."

Source: NBC5

